BLAIRMORE'S WAR MEMORIAL DEDICATED

Despite the chilly weather and considerable snow, close on five hundred turned out on Friday morning last for the dedication ceremony and Armistice service at the court house grounds.

The ceremonies throughout were brief but quite impressive. Members of the I.O.D.E., sponsors of the memorial, and the B.E.S.L. were in attendance, together with members of the Brownie Pack.

The programme opened with the anthems "The Maple Leaf Forever" and "O Canada," immediately followed by the invocation by Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., and the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," then two minutes of silence for the honored dead. Following the raising of the flag by G. Moffan and unveiling of the memorial by J. H. Farmer, wreaths were placed by the I.O.D.E., the B.E.S.L., the R. C. M. Police, and a personal wreath by Mrs. Fraser, whose husband, Capt. David Fraser, happened to be among the early Canadian casualties in the Great War. In an appropriate address, the of-cial dedication was made by Magistrate Gresham, followed by the memorial prayer by Rev. J. R.

Hague, of the Anglican church.

The memorial address by Mr. John Shevels, of Bellevue, was followed by the Roll Call by Messrs. J. Radd and D. A. Howe, of the Blairmore Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., and the "Last Post" ably rendered by Billy Royle and Mr. Hobson.

"God Save the King" and the benediction by Rev. E. B. Arrol brought the service to a close.

Owing to the cold, the West Canadian Collieries' band, though present in full force, having arrived from a parade in Bellevue, were unable to participate as expected, the accompaniment being supplied with difficulty by Bandmaster Goodwin on his cornet.

The programme was under the chairmanship of J. Angus MacDonal. The cenotaph was set in position during the past few weeks by Mr. A. E. Ferguson, of Blairmore.

The Remembrance Day service at Coleman was held in the Miners' hall, attended by Legionnaires, Rangers, Girl Guides, Brownies, Scouts, Cubs and citizens, who marched to the hall headed by the town band. Taking part in the service were Rev. H. J. Bevan, of St. Paul's United church; Capt. Hewitt, of the Salvation Army, and the choir of the United church.

The main address was delivered by Mr. Sidney C. Short, member of the Coleman branch of the B.E.S.L.

In the evening at Coleman, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion held a social in the Oddfellows' hall.

BLAIRMORE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Following two generous donations of paint by Blairmore citizens, the Blairmore Public Library has recently been given a general rejuvenation.

In order that the public may see for themselves the facilities offered by the library, and the improvements being made, a Publicity Tea, arranged by the ladies of the library board, will be held in the library building on Wednesday, November 30th. People are asked to keep the date open and watch for further announcement.

The most enterprising and prosperous Chinese within the borders of Canada are those conducting market garden businesses in the Fraser River Valley of British Columbia, and according to a writer in the magazine issued by Canadian Industries Limited, half the Chinese in that province are engaged in raising 75 per cent of the vegetable produce for the Vancouver and Victoria markets. The amazing success of their efforts is due to their own patient toil and the adoption of scientific care of the soil. In many-man fashion they harvest as miracle-as three successive crops off a single plot in one season; offsetting the terrible strain on the soil with liberal application of fertilizers.

POPULAR OLD-TIMER PASSES

One of the most beloved and all-round popular citizens of The Pass passed away at an early hour on Monday, November 14th, in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Archer, relict of the late William Archer, in her sixty-ninth year.

Deceased was a native of Airdrie, Scotland, and came direct to Blairmore with her husband and children some twenty-eight years ago.

In 1914, her husband, William Archer, enlisted for overseas service with the 192nd Battalion, formed in Blairmore, and returned from England towards the latter part of 1916. Shortly after his return he met death in an accident near the local mine.

The three children survive, Katie (Mrs. William Turner, of Blairmore), William, of Sentinel, and Jean (Mrs. Davis, of Nelson, B.C.), with whom sympathy is extended.

The late Mrs. Archer was a member of the local United church, the Rebekahs and the I. O. D. E.

Funeral will take place this afternoon from the residence in West Blairmore, service to be held at the United church at 3 o'clock, Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., officiating. The remains will be laid to rest in the Blairmore cemetery.

In the fall of 1936, Mrs. Archer, in company with several other Pass ladies, made the pilgrimage to the Canadian Memorial at Vimy Ridge, and was present when it was unveiled by King Edward VIII.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT PASSES AT VANCOUVER

There passed away at her daughter's residence, 1829 Kitchener Street, Vancouver, on November the 9th, 1935, Justine, widow of the late Thomas Frayer, in her 85th year.

Mrs. Frayer leaves one daughter, (Folly), Mrs. E. L. Raycraft, one sister, Mrs. E. Flint, of Armstrong, B.C.; two granddaughters, Isabel and Betty Seymour, to mourn her passing.

Requiem mass in St. Francis church, corner Senilis and Napier Streets, was held on Thursday morning, November the 10th, at 10.30, Rev. Father Boniface, O.F.M., officiating. Committal at Calvary Ocean View burial park.

Mrs. Frayer will be remembered as a former resident of Blairmore, her husband for a number of years in our pioneer days having been in partnership with D. A. Sinclair in the building and contracting business in Blairmore. The residence at present occupied by Mrs. Dutil was erected by Mr. Frayer and occupied by them for quite a number of years. Mr. Frayer predeceased her in Blairmore some twenty-odd years ago.

A total of 311 elk were killed in the Wainwright National Park during the recent twelve days of shooting. The average weight of the carcasses was 340 pounds, while some dressed as high as 450 pounds.

Dr. Leland Walkey, former medical practitioner at Pincher Creek, and of late at Lethbridge, passed away at his Lethbridge home on Friday morning last, following an illness of about a month. Dr. Walkey was born in Elmwood, Ontario, on December 12, 1884, and graduated from Queen's University in 1912. He came west to Pincher Creek in 1913; and made the acquaintance of its editor of The Enterprise on the train before reaching Winnipeg, at which time we had the privilege of giving him a fair idea of the kind of a country he intended to adopt. He is survived by his widow and four sons, Cecil, Leland, Donald and Jack. J. M. Walkey, of Toronto, and L. C. Walkey, of Vancouver, are brothers. The remains were laid to rest at Lethbridge on Monday afternoon, Rev. J. M. Pritchard officiating.

The editor of The Staveland Advertiser, whose home was recently visited by the stork, remarks: Now if someone would come along with a prospectus for the invention of some kind of an apparatus to put over a baby's mouth when it cries, so that the sound could be carried through a hose pipe to the back yard, they would receive our earnest and whole-hearted co-operation.

As The Tribune said last week, a record was established by the S. G. government in retaining the Athabasca seat—even though Mr. Tade's majority was not in half. It is the first seat the government has won out of four contests in three years. Should the present government make the same average at a general election, capture one seat out of four, they would have no chance of being returned to power. The moral to be taken by the Aberhart forces from Monday's contest would seem to be that they should hold their nomination conventions on Sunday. In Gravel, Edmonton and Lethbridge, they failed to do this and lost, while in Athabasca they did, and won. Sunday would appear to be their lucky day, and it is just possible that the Hon. Ernest Manning may have recently discovered this new political trick while studying the heavenly stars.—Trochu Tribune.

EDUCATION—AIN'T IT GRAND!

Seven years ago I entered University, and since then I have spent a little short of three years come this April within its walls. What have I done?

Well, to begin with, I smoked 17,000 cigarettes, drank 740 cups of Varsity Shop coffee, and 660 glasses of beer. I bought 65 books, 40 of which I subsequently resold, and went to 450 lectures, 350 of which were not worth listening to. I came into personal contact with 10 professors, 3 of whom were teachers in the best sense and 5 of whom I considered more stupid than myself. Three of my twenty courses I passed by, ignoring the notes of a friend taken more than five years previously. The professors had not improved, or even changed, their lectures by so much as even a single word; 300 examination questions were set before me, in answer to 280 of which I regurgitated a nauseous mass of partly-digested lecture notes.

More valuable and vastly more interesting were the 100 "bull sessions" I took part in. In the course of these I argued for communism 50 times, for controlled capitalism 50 times, proved there is no God 99 times, and made, also, 3,000 very wise remarks concerning women.

From the library I drew 300 books, of which 60 were reference books and the rest chosen with the selective care a magic might use in a five-and-ten-cent store. I resolved to read the reference books, go to the lectures, and thereby make high marks to please my parents 68 times.

In my spare time, which was plentiful, I attended 11 Varsity formal dances, 11 of which were boring; 50 motion pictures, 8 of which were excellent, and took out 19 different coats, 4 of whom were pleasant companions and 6 of whom I wouldn't marry to Adolph Hitler. On 5,653 occasions I worried about the future.

Soon I shall be Educated? Ain't it grand?—Ex.

NO DEFENCE?

Sir Alfred B. Morine sounds a warning that Newfoundland would be considered by an enemy in the event of a future war, a strategic point from which to attack Canada, as the island, if captured, could be a veritable fortress and air base from which air-raids could be made. He fears that America would be too late in coming in in defence of Canada if they decide to do so, and adds that Newfoundland should be given defensive armaments for her protection, this to be a contribution, perhaps, by England, seeing that Newfoundland is also the Corner Stone of the Empire.

If the Nazi mind is eager to get the island colony, as John Avalon thinks it might be, it is imperative that watchful eyes be kept on this "gem in the ocean." No doubt there are already, although some observers may not think so. We have an airport, and plans seem to be on foot for sea bases as well. However, the British, French and the countries west of us ought to keep Newfoundland on the map for many years yet. A few "guns in the woods" can hardly be expected to do much in defense measures for the Sea Grit Isle.—Twillingate Sun.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windsor)

Edmonton, Nov. 18.—With the opening this week of another session of the legislature—the seventh session since the 1935 election—the Alberta electorate stood some chance of getting some information on what is actually happening in the government and among private members.

The first caucus of the session, held on Monday, was watched closely by observers for an indication of whether the private members who are known to be impatient, and even disgusted with Premier Aberhart and certain of his ministers, are going to rise in open rebellion, or whether they are going to wait until a better opportunity arises when the general election draws closer.

There is good reason for believing that the provincial government can be expected to announce an election shortly after Their Majesties the King and Queen visit this province next May or June. Although Aberhart has been cultivating Cameron riding for months past, and might be expected to make himself a candidate there if he were to run for reelection at all (since he knows that he would not stand a chance of election in his present constituency of Strathcona-High River) there are more signs that he will not run at all.

But most of his ministers and most of the private members in the house, having sampled comparative glory and very substantial incomes as legislators, want to be re-elected. It is known that many, if not all of them, have oblivion if Aberhart undertakes to lead them again as Social Crediters, but at the same time they fear in open break. Hence the close interest in the relationships beneath the surface during the present session.

The fact that the Social Credit candidate won the Athabasca by-election yesterday has but little encouragement, privately. The fact that the margin of victory was very close, that even that slim margin was obtained only by such concentration of government forces as would not be possible in all ridings in a general election, and that Athabasca was the best field in the province for Social Credit propaganda at the time, all detracted from any undue optimism. Also important was the fact that it was merely a by-election, giving the electors the choice between being friendly with the present government in the hope of concessions, or of electing a member to the opposite without hope of patronage. When the opportunity comes, with a general election to get a new government in Edmonton, there may be a different story in the ballots even in Athabasca.

Expected to consume much time in the new session of the house is the Oil and Gas Conservation Act; the government wants to fix up some clauses in the hope of killing all efforts to have the present act thrown out.

That job was ostensibly the reason for calling the session, but also listed on the agenda for the session, importantly although inconspicuously, is a bill to provide the members of the house with some Christmas shopping money. The regular indemnity of $2,000 for each regular session is not sufficient for the members of the house; not in any session since they held their first in 1926 have they failed to pass an act providing themselves with extra money either in advance or as an outright extra payment.

Other bills on the agenda include minor amendments to the Hail Insurance Act, to the Debt Adjustment Act, and also to the School Act to ensure that authority heretofore vested in district trustees can be taken over by the boards in charge of the enlarged divisions.

An act to validate the spending of $200,000 for the establishment of the "treasury branches" which have been set up by the government also must be passed; the money was provided first by order-in-council without any legislative authority, and now the government must ask the legislature for the right to do what already has been done.

So far, nine of the "treasury branches" have been established, but there has been no rush of business in them as far as can be disclosed here, and indications are that the whole idea of the government going into the banking business has proved already a highly unprofitable failure.

As the Trochu Tribune remarked a few weeks ago, there has been no mention of Premier Aberhart transferring any bank account from a bank to the treasury house, any more than there has been any word of any of the other ministers switching their personal bank accounts. "Take a tip from your premier and the Tribunes," the Trochu paper remarked icily, to the enjoyment of observers here. "If you are lucky enough to have any money in a chartered bank, leave it there until Mr. Aberhart and his cabinet ministers take their money out, and then—still leave it there."

The failure of the premier and his ministers to accept any of the so-called "prosperity certificates" of two years ago, although urging everyone else in the province to accept them, came to mind again.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

S. Douglas is confined to his home through illness.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Draper was held Saturday from the family residence, interment being made in the Hillcrest cemetery, with Rev. John Wood officiating. Pallbearers were Fred McDougall, R. Gardner, A. Mark, D. Davis, W. Greener and B. Caswell. Mrs. Draper, who was in her forty-sixth year, had been in ill health for some months. She was very highly respected in the district. Born in Cradley, England, she came to Canada in 1909. After residing in Lethbridge for several years, the family moved to Hillcrest, where they have since resided. She is survived by her husband, Robert Draper, one daughter, Anne, and two sons, Ralph and Harry, all residing in Hillcrest; also six brothers, Fred, Harold, William, Norman, Ernest and Frank, and her mother, Mrs. E. Willett, residing in Lethbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Mackie, of Blairmore, are taking up residence in Hillcrest this week.

The Hillcrest intermediate hockey club held a successful whist drive and dance in the K.E. hall on Thursday night of last week.

A very enjoyable party was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Webster, when their daughter Maurine entertained a number of her friends in celebration of her eighteenth birthday.

A very successful bazaar and bingo was held on Saturday in the Catholic hall by the ladies of that church.

LOBSTERS FOUND IN LOCOMOTIVE TENDER

Moncton, N.B., Nov. 14.—While lobster, fresh boiled and in the form of salad, is a regular feature of menus in Canadian National dining cars, a new variation came to light the other day when workmen were inspecting the tender of a locomotive in the railway shops here for general overhaul. One of the workmen, on looking into the water compartment of the tender after the water had been drained off, discovered three of the crustaceans crawling on the bottom. One measured four inches in length. How the lobsters got there is a mystery. The locomotive had been in service between South Devon and Newcastle prior to shopping. The lobsters were removed from the tender and placed in a pail of water, where they became an object of much curiosity.

Mrs. MacDougall returned last week from a visit to Medicine Hat.

DOMINIONS HONOR EMPIRE HERO

The anniversary observance in London of the Battle of Trafalgar, in which Admiral Lord Nelson won a great victory over Napoleon's fleet at the cost of his own life, was joined by representatives of the Dominions. The picture shows the distinguished group which took part in the function at the foot of the Nelson Monument in Trafalgar Square. Holding wreaths which they are about to place on the monument are, left to right, Lt.-Col. F. M. Stan-Commissaire for New Zealand, Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce, High Commissioner for Australia; Hon. W. J. THE SECRET IN COOKING FISH

Miss Hazel J. Freeman, Dominion government cookery expert, says: "The clear, cold waters of our northern lakes and rivers, the salty tang of our two great oceans make Canadian fish exceptionally fine in flavor. 'The secret in cooking fish,' says Miss Freeman, 'lies in having the heat—whether electric, gas, kerosene or coal stove—hot enough to broil or bake them quickly, and above all not too long. Of course, the timing is up to the cook, and it is this very timing that marks the difference between having fish that is cooked to perfection, or stewed until it has lost its heart and soul and that indescribable something that makes the family welcome fish with gusto. So keep an eye on the fish, when the flesh is firm and tender, when the connective tissue holding the bones together is gelatinous, that's the time to stop. Fish should be cooked until the albuminous substance is 'set,' and no more. This is the protein constituent of the fish, and when it takes on a cream color, the albumen is set and the fish is done. Each flake of the fish may be pulled apart in loose folds, full of its own flavorful juices. For fillets one inch or less in thickness, it takes 10 minutes in a hot oven (500 F.), whether the fish weighs one pound or five."

When driving, keep your camera on the seat beside you, loaded and ready. You never know when a picture chance (such as this) will pop up.

DO YOU keep your camera in your automobile when you're driving—all loaded on the seat beside you, lens and shutter set, ready to shoot at a moment's notice?

Try it sometime, and you'll be surprised how it helps you spot picture opportunities. Hundreds of pictures can be shot without leaving the car. This is especially true in warm weather, when car windows are down, and the top, in some cases, is folded back.

If you are not doing the driving, your hands are free and there are many more picture opportunities for you—as well as a better snapshot position. The car halts at a street intersection, and there may be a popcorn peddler on the corner, a window washer at the office window above, people busily hurrying to and from work. Eastern Workmen and their Families
Eat over $20,000,000 worth of Western Meats and Butter

THE Eastern industrial worker likes Western food and he buys plenty of it — when he's working.

For instance, take an item like meat. Eastern sales alone brought the West nearly $20,000,000 in 1936. Sale of 10,000 tons of butter brought in nearly $5,000,000 more, while grain products, poultry and eggs meant another $15,000,000 in Western pockets.

That's why it's so vital to the West to keep the Eastern worker busy. And one way you help do it is by the purchase of a Canadian-built car, for an active Automotive Industry keeps many other industries humming — and all their workers and their families must be fed.

Of course, your money goes East — but it comes back to you in no uncertain fashion: in the purchases of your best customer, the industrial East, that aggregate over $40,000,000 a year.

Agricultural Salvation

A few years ago a good deal was printed and heard in this country about the Danish co-operative movement and the system of rural education as practised in that little European country, the close tie which exists between Danish rural education and co-operation and the profound effect which this combination has exerted upon the economic and cultural life of the people of Denmark and particularly of the residents of the agricultural areas.

So much interest was evinced in the results of the tie-up between education and co-operation in Denmark that governmental authorities in this country a few years ago secured a great deal of data on the subject and this information was widely disseminated throughout the prairie provinces. In the course of a year or two farmers and others in this country became well posted on what has been and is being done in Denmark and the results on the welfare of the people of that country.

Generally speaking the information secured by the people of this country was favorably received by the farming community of Western Canada and while it was recognized the Danish system of rural education and co-operative marketing of agricultural products could not be adopted in this country in toto, there were many who felt that some of the features of both could be made adaptable here, not only to the economic benefit of the agriculturist but also to the promotion of a better cultural life.

During the era of the great depression of the past eight or nine years the interest which had been aroused in this country in the two movements which have contributed so much to the material welfare and happiness of the Danish rural people appears to have dropped out of sight and that is to be regretted for there is much of value therein of which advantage might be taken in shaping the future course of the rural life of these prairies.

Undoubtedly this loss of interest can properly be attributed to the struggle which the farmers have had to wage during the past few years for their very existence. Agriculturists have had to wage warfare against a series of disasters of great magnitude, including drought, dust, rust and grasshoppers, forcing them to give undivided attention to intimate threats and problems and leaving them little opportunity or energy to prosecute researches further afield.

Should Consider Possibilities

With, it is to be hoped, a return to more nearly normal yields in 1939, the present might be an appropriate time to take stock of present day trends in Western Canadian agricultural industry in the hope of determining the course which should be shaped to ensure future development along sound and profitable lines.

It is to be expected that much thought will be given to this subject in the next year or two and the problems of the present and future are under review some earnest consideration might well be given to the question of the application here of some of the Danish agricultural marketing policies and the Danish rural educational system which lies behind their co-operative system.

As pointed out in a recent article by A. Axelsen Drejer, Secretary to the Central Co-operative Committee of Denmark the co-operative movement occupies a prominent place in the world's general knowledge of Denmark and, as he further pointed out, the enormous growth in the production and marketing section of the movement in that country "is directly connected with the reorganization of farm production in the last quarter of the nineteenth century", when conditions made it necessary for the farmers of Denmark to turn their attention from cereal growing as the main basis of their industry to animal husbandry.

There is plenty of evidence to demonstrate that the agricultural and folk schools played a very important part in enabling the Danish farmers to face and successfully combat the debacle which threatened to overwhelm their industry and, what is of equal if not greater importance is the fact that these schools have made a tremendous contribution to the cultural welfare and happiness of the rural population of Denmark.

During the past thirty years about one-third of the agricultural youth of Denmark have taken courses at the agricultural schools and the folk high schools, the latter affording opportunities for adult education particularly designed for rural people and including in a wide cultural and practical curriculum some courses in agriculture.

When it is pointed out that there are approximately 60 of these folk high schools and some 22 agricultural schools catering to a rural population of about 1,400,000 it is not difficult to understand the profound influence these institutions have had and are having on the life of the people of the country districts.

Heat Drives New Engine

Only Element Needed Is Chain Of English Invention

In a garden shed in the little Buckinghamshire village of Land End, an engine that "runs on nothing" has been invented.

For 30 years the inventor, Alfred Carr, has been working in a lean-to shed attached to his tiny bungalow in the Chiltern Hills, perfecting this machine.

As a young man he watched workmen building an iron fence between brick walls outside a village factory. During the following summer, he saw one of the walls collapse before the irresistible pressure of the expanding metal.

The power of the expanding iron impressed him. He pondered over it for many days.

"If one could get several different metals expanding and contracting to work one against the other a terrific power could be created" he told himself. "Couldn't that be used in some way?"

In the small gloomy shed amongst his fruit and vegetable canisters, the writer saw the answer to this question.

The machine is no bigger than a typewriter. It consists of a central cylinder, with three pistons, one inside the other, and two flywheels on each side. It is mounted on a pedestal about three feet high, with a little door at the base.

"There are metals inside and there are some rather delicate adjusting parts there," Carr said. "I've been compelled to work as little as a ten-thousandth of an inch."

He lit a blow-lamp and put the flame inside the door. About four minutes after he swung one of the flywheels and the pistons began to move slowly. As the engine gathered speed he took the blow-lamp away.

The tiny engine kept on running with no sound of explosion, no steam or fume, just the rhythmic click of the moving parts.

"Heat circulates at the bottom and cold water at the top," he explained, "between the heat and the cold are metals, expanding and contracting. There you have the principle. The use of it is my secret."

Asked how long the engine would run if well warmed up, Carr replied: "I've had it running for as long as four days. I warmed it up on a Sunday morning and without being heated again it will until the following Tuesday."

Seeks Tax Exemption

C.B.C. Advances Claim That It Is Adjunct Of Crown

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in an assessment appeal heard in Toronto before Judge James Parker advanced the claim it is exempt from taxation on the ground it is an adjunct of the crown. Judge Parker reserved decision.

Counsel for the city of Toronto said only actual crown lands, not separately incorporated bodies such as the C.B.C., were exempt from taxation. The Canadian National Railways and other publicly-created bodies were taxed in Ontario.

John Jennings, appearing for C.B.C., said the tax exemption claim would be advanced right across Canada.

Earliest Inhabitant

Evidence Of First Man On North American Continent Found In Saskatchewan

Dr. Frank T. Roberts, archaeologist of the Smithsonian Institute, declared he had found evidence the Folsom man, earliest known inhabitant of North America, had roamed from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Reporting explorations during the past summer, Dr. Roberts said he found stone implements and arrowheads in Saskatchewan which showed work characteristic of that known to have been done by the Folsom man.

The Folsom man inhabited North America as early as 10,000 years ago, archaeologists claim. Prior to his Saskatchewan explorations, Dr. Roberts traced the Folsom man as far west as Texas and had received specimens dug up all the way from Colorado to the Atlantic seaboard.

Finding of the arrow and spearheads in Saskatchewan was particularly interesting, Dr. Roberts said, because they confirmed the belief the Folsom man, who lived in North America long before the Indians, was a gypsy-like nomad.

Explorations just carried out show the Folsom man lived during the era of the hairy mammoth, the North American camel and an extinct species of bison, the Smithsonian archaeologist reported. The Folsom man's stone implements were always discovered in close association with bones of the mammoth and other animals in the same geological strata.

A Word For The Scot

Writer Pictures Scotland As A Fine Country In Which To Live

Not everybody in Scotland eats porridge, drinks whisky and wears the kilt. Porridge may be eaten, whisky may be drunk, and the kilt may be seen and worn, but there are other things.

Winter is not unduly cold in Scotland. In point of fact, over the greater part of Scotland winter temperatures are higher than they are in London. Except on high ground, snow and frost are rarities of brief duration. Palm trees flourish in the open air. The mean winter temperature in the Orkney Islands, to the north of the Scottish mainland, is about the same as that of Falmouth, in the south of England.

Scotland is not all mountainous. The Highlands are only a part of the country. The Lowlands, too, are beautiful, and they excel in historical and romantic associations.

The Scots are not mean. They refrain from foolish extravagance; but their charities are magnificently endowed and generous as the wind. The Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh, where doctors from over all the world are glad to study, is kept up by voluntary contributions.

The Scots have a sense of humor. It is not the same as the English sense of humor, but it is keen and lively.

Larger School Units

Movement Is Being Carried On Vigorously In Alberta

Reports from the Department of Education at Edmonton indicate that the movement to establish large units for school administration is being carried on vigorously. Blocks of from 80 to 90 small districts are being united to form one large administrative area. So far 34 large units have been formed.

Considerable opposition has developed in many parts of the province to the big unit plan, largely based on the claims that school taxes will be increased and that local home rule will be eliminated. Proponents of the new system assert that rural education in its present setup is at a standstill and that further progress is impossible until the small administrative unit disappears.

Two generations ago education was the parents' responsibility. After a long struggle, the community assumed the costs of the education of all children within its borders. Today it is being asserted that equal and adequate educational facilities can be provided only by enlarging the administrative areas to include a great number of communities—Calgary Alberta.

Another Story For Ripley

Hunter Claims He Ragged Ducks In Unusual Way

Here's the story that is being told—take it or leave it: A well-known young hunter of Goderich, Ontario, went out hunting ducks and came to a field where there was a good-sized flock of them. However, the ducks were settled in an open field with no covering by which the hunter could get close enough for a shot. The wily chap then resorted to strategy and his knowledge of wild life. Knowing the ducks are afraid of cattle, he correlated two calves in the field, some distance away from the birds, and placing an arm about the neck of each, led them close to the ducks. This hidden he was able to get within close range of the game and he arrived back in Goderich with three ducks.

Not Exactly True

All Pioneers Not Hardy Race They Are Pictured

There is a legend that the pioneers were a hale and hardy race, living to a good old age, and successfully raising families of a dozen or more. Apparently that wasn't true, as shown by the deaths commemorated in a booklet covering the period of 30 years from 1853 to 1883. The inscriptions cover 15 pages and 75 deaths. In two cases, the exact age is not mentioned, but the victims were little children. Apparently they were under 10.

Of the 75 deaths listed, 52 died under the age of 30 years, or more than two-thirds of the total. Twelve of the others were over 60 years of age. Only 11 out of the 75 died between the ages of 30 and 60. It appeared that those who lived to the age of 30 had a good chance of reaching a fair age, though only five reached the "allotted span" of 70 years.

Planning Reserve Force

Men To Be Trained By Royal Canadian Mounted Police

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police plans to train a number of reserves from among the staffs of large firms in several cities. It was announced at Ottawa by Deputy Commissioner Thomas Dunn.

The reserves will not be trained at Regina, Ottawa where the force already has a large number of trained men available.

One city where the scheme will be tried will be Winnipeg where men chosen from employees of a number of large companies will be drilled. The usual strict R.C.M.P. entrance requirements in regard to physical condition, weight and height will not be rigidly enforced.

The men, when trained, will constitute a reserve supply, for, any emergency the force may be called upon to face.

Women In New England Prefer Husbands Who Are Boss

The results of a test show that 59 per cent. of all American women object to the word "obey" in the marriage ceremony. But this is not the case in staid, Puritan old New England, where the condition is reversed and 65 per cent. of the women want husbands who will boss them around and make them mind. But it is a majority of American women object to obeying their husbands, the position is reversed when the male in the case is their boss. INFLUENCE OF BRITAIN DIRECTED TOWARDS PEACE

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared the British government must be a "go-getter for peace," but made it clear Great Britain must be as strong as she should be treated everywhere with respect.

Speaking at the annual Guildhall banquet given by the incoming lord mayor of London, Sir Frank Bowles, the prime minister predicted Europe "is settling down to quieter times," and asserted he saw no reason why Britons should not face Christmas in "a spirit of cheerfulness and confidence."

He pledged British armament would be "commensurate with the part we want to play in maintaining peace."

"I wish this country to be a go-getter for peace," he said. "That does not mean we want to undertake the role of policeman-in-ordinary to the world. If we see peace threatened we shall use any influence we may possess to save it. If war breaks out we shall take any opportunity to stop it."

The prime minister stressed his determination to build on the Munich accord for "peace, security and justice for all under the rule of law, order, reason and good faith."

He replied to Chancellor Hitler's expressed fears a "different kind of government" might succeed Mr. Chamberlain's and be headed by "war-mongers."

"There is no reason to suppose," Mr. Chamberlain said, "that any of us have reached a final and unalterable stage of government."

The Munich agreement demonstrated, the prime minister declared, that four great powers under different systems of government were able to agree without quarrelling "upon the main outlines of settlement of one of the most thorny and dangerous international problems of our time."

"That should encourage us to think it must be possible for such powers to agree on other things as well," he continued. "Peace was not saved by words, nor by notes; it was saved by action."

"And I have no shadow of doubt in my mind that what we did was right."

The prime minister summed up the government's foreign policy under four points—the same four he enunciated when he first took office in 1937.

First was to maintain peace. Second was to make Britain so strong she would be treated all over the world with respect. Third was to promote prosperity of industry and thus provide employment for the people. Fourth was to work steadily for improvement of conditions of British people.

He reiterated "the piling up of armaments is utterly distasteful to me," but added:

"For the time being, I regard it as inevitable, but I hope it is only a temporary accompaniment to that other part of the policy to which I am turning all my energies without qualification and without misgiving—a policy of understanding and good will, a policy which is desired by all the peoples, a policy to which I invite the co-operation of all nations."

Contending the Anglo-German "no more war" declaration had received insufficient attention, the prime minister read it to the gathering.

He added it was a "famous proposition" to say the document indicated any loosening of Britain's ties with France, and declared he and Lord Halifax, foreign secretary, were looking forward with pleasure to their forthcoming visit to Paris.

For Distressed Areas

Breaking Up Of Ship Will Give Work For Men In England

London.—One of England's most distressed areas is being put back on its feet, it was revealed with announcement that Sir John Jarvis, Conservative member of parliament for Guildford, had signed a contract with the Cunard-White Star line to buy the Berengaria.

The former German liner, taken over by Great Britain after the Great War, would be broken up for scrap at Jarrold where 200 men will be engaged on the job for two years. Sir John, prominent in British publishing circles as well as in politics, paid more than £100,000 ($500,000) for her.

Trade With Orient

Vancouver Hopeful That Business Will Return To Normal

Vancouver.—Hopes that Canada's trade with the Orient eventually will be restored to normal proportions by reconstruction in war-torn China were held in Vancouver exporting circles.

Whatever the outcome of the Sino-Japanese conflict, exporters here hope in spite of Japan's policy of self-sufficiency and her desire for economic domination in eastern Asia, they will share at least temporarily in the work of rebuilding.

Since the hostilities began, Japanese war requirements have absorbed tremendous quantities of Canadian materials but the trade gains in this direction are more than offset by shrunken markets for wheat, lumber and fish.

Canadian-Japanese trade figures for the first six months of 1938 illustrate Japan's campaign to keep her imports to bare essentials. For the first three months Japanese exports from Canada reached nearly $7,000,000. For the three months ending June 30 they dwindled to $3,234,000.

Canadian exports to China for the entire six-month period totalled $1,308,000, half what they were in the first six months of 1937. The decline of Chinese exports to Canada was almost identical.

While the war benefited the Canadian mining industry by skyrocketing the Japanese demand for non-ferrous metals and products, timber statistics show why lumber exporters hope for a reconstruction program in China requiring vast building.

This is what happened to British Columbia's Oriental lumber trade in the first six months of 1938:

Exports to China fell to 19,433,000 feet. They were 23,309,000 feet for the same period in the previous year. Exports to Japan dropped to 29,765,000 feet. In the 1937 period they were 123,137,000 feet.

To Visit Provinces

King And Queen To Visit All Parts

Ottawa.—When the king and queen come to Canada early next summer they will plan to visit every province in the Dominion. Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced. Their Majesties intend at present to devote three full weeks to the Canadian visit and their trip to the United States will be in addition to that period.

Arrangements for the Canadian itinerary, responsibility for which rests upon the Canadian government, will be in hands of a sub-committee of senior members of the cabinet not yet named. It is anticipated they will have all plans completed before the end of the year.

Keynote of the itinerary will be the endeavor to have their Majesties see as many Canadians as possible and be seen by as many Canadians as the time permits. Social functions will be reduced to the minimum for that purpose.

Highlight of the tour will be the function in Ottawa where their Majesties will unveil the national war memorial recently put in position. All cabinet members will have to be submitted to the king and queen for their approval. The cabinet sub-committee will confer with designated provincial government officials so arrangements may be made which the government has not yet been advised the exact time the king and queen will reach Canada.

Cold Winter For Northland

Caribou Trek South Is Sure Sign According To Trappers

The Pas, Man.—Heavy caribou migration during a recent week-end brought trappers and hunters news of the northland this winter.

Thick-necked timber caribou are crossing the Hudson Bay Railway a few miles north of here, and the equally long-haired barren-lands caribou are migrating toward the timber-line 80 miles south of Churchill, Manitoba's Hudson Bay port.

Jack Bacon, veteran trapper, said only heavy or packed snow on the barren lands would force the long-haired animals southward so early in season of food. Usually they do not migrate until December, he said.

Both groups of caribou, though hundreds of miles apart, apparently started the southern trek simultaneously.

Edmonton.—A resolution urging a minimum wage of $100 a month for all male workers in Alberta will be submitted to the annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Labor in Calgary, Nov. 28, by the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council.

JANUARY IS THE DATE SET FOR OTTAWA SESSION

Ottawa.—Parliament will meet either the first or second week in January, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced following the first cabinet council he has presided over in a month.

Had the new Canada-United States trade agreement been ready in time the government would have called parliament late this month, the prime minister said, but he was not yet sure what date it would be signed, although it will be "very soon."

Apparently much refreshed by his month holiday in the West Indies, Mr. Mackenzie King discussed a number of matters after council, including the visit of the king and queen next summer and appointments to foreign legations.

When it became obvious the trade agreement would not be ready to present to parliament until late in November at best, the government decided that little would be gained by calling parliament before Christmas, the prime minister said.

"I think it will suit the convenience of members if we call parliament early in January, either the first or second week. The exact date can be decided later."

"I am sure, in the end, we will make as much progress by meeting early in the year. We will have our legislative program ready. The trade agreement will be presented for ratification immediately after we dispose of the address in reply to the speech from the throne."

"We will go ahead with business as fast as the house permits but we do not propose to rush parliament. It will take its own time but it will be desirable to have it over before the visit of their Majesties."

"In any event we will not sit while their Majesties are here. If necessary we will adjourn while they are in Canada because ministers and members will want to be in their own constituencies."

Finance Minister Charles Dunning attended his first full cabinet session since he was taken ill during the budget debate last June. He has attended two brief sessions in the past week.

Housing Loans

Large Sum Is Approved Under National Housing Act

Ottawa.—Loans totalling $24,695,288 have been approved under the National Housing Act and its predecessor, the Dominion Housing Act up to October 31 last, a statement issued by the finance department announced. Up to the same date loans for home improvement aggregated $22,319,546, making a grand total for house building and house repair of more than $47,000,000.

Housing loans up to the end of last month provided housing accommodation for 6,272 Canadian families and the home improvement loans enabled 55,820 families to improve their existing dwellings. The statement estimated those loans had made possible an expenditure on actual building construction (including land) of more than $53,000,000.

Seaplane Base 500 Miles North Of Edmonton

Edmonton.—Reservation of the entire shoreline of Willow Lake, about 300 miles north of Edmonton between Fort McMurray and Waterways, where an all-weather seaplane base is to be developed, was announced by Premier A. B. Aherhart.

The premier also announced arrangements were under way by which thousands of tons of freight will be carried into the north country on winter roads this year. In previous years, he pointed out, freight into the north ceased with the closing of navigation except by aeroplane.

Steals From Constable

Bren Gun Hearing

Nov. 21 Is Date Set For Argument By Council

Ottawa.—Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the supreme court of Canada heard the last evidence as royal commissioner investigating the Bren gun contract and set Monday, Nov. 21, as the date for argument by counsel upon the evidence taken in eight weeks of public hearings. The argument is expected to last a week.

The close of the hearing came as a result of conferences between the judge and counsel. At these meetings counsel agreed upon the time for argument, the order in which they will speak and a time limit for each speaker.

COLONIAL CLAIMS HITLER OFFER AS PEACE GUARANTEE

Munich.—Chancellor Hitler demanded satisfaction of Germany's colonial claims as a guarantee of friendship with Great Britain and France.

"We are very grateful that the leaders in France and Britain desire to live in understanding with the German people," the fuhrer told Nazi party veterans meeting here to commemorate the 15th anniversary of his 1923 Munich beer hall putsch.

But the surest way to achieve such understanding, he continued, was to settle the one great problem still outstanding—restoration of Germany's war-lost colonies "which were taken away from us by pretexes contrary to justice."

Colonies are all Germany asks of Britain and France, the fuhrer pledged. "This is naturally in no way a matter to settle by war. It is only a question of justice and honest intention to make a common life possible among the peoples."

He poured fresh praise on Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Edouard Daladier of France but heaped renewed bitterness on critics of the dictatorship.

Germany intended to keep pace in the world rearmament race, he said. "There are now men in power in France and Britain," he declared, "who want peace, but there are other men who do not hide their desire for war with the reich."

During the recent house of commons debate on defence, Hitler charged a member of the opposition arose and asked: "Would this aeroplane also be able to carry a cargo of bombs to Berlin?"

"Let us understand what that means," the fuhrer cried. "It is true that it is the opposition which speaks this way, but in the democracies the opposition of to-day can be the government of tomorrow."

"It would be very fine," he continued sarcastically, "if the world embarked on a bid of justice and peace. But for the moment we see only a world in arms, a menacing world."

"We have no intention to interfere in the internal constitution of other countries," he said.

"But as a German statesman I am obliged to study foreign problems and take notice of the dangers which present themselves. And I do not allow my instructions to be given to me by a British parliamentarian."

He blamed Jews for German post-war inflation which he called "one of the greatest of Jewish swindles." He said the German collapse would have been averted "if destiny had put me in the place which I am holding now."

Swinging into his attack on British opposition leaders, Hitler said: "When a chief of the British opposition (Arthur Greenwood) says: 'We want to destroy not the German people, but the regime,' it amounts to the same thing, for the regime is the German people. And when somebody says it is necessary to liberate the German people from the regime, I can reply: 'Messrs. British parliamentarians, you are in no way qualified for that. I am the only one qualified.'"

"Winston Churchill has behind him perhaps 15,000 or 20,000 votes. I have 40,000,000. It is the nation's business to judge us. We have done more than these gentlemen. We have established order. That is why I am obliged to take into consideration the mentality of those who perhaps will govern abroad tomorrow."

"The German nation will consequently understand why I place it on guard."

Repeating his charge Germany for many years vainly strove to secure justice by negotiations and recalling the naval accord concluded with Great Britain, he thundered:

"The reich does not ask for negotiations. It will not obtain justice by the normal procedure of negotiations, we will exact it!"

RAILWAY SERVICE ALWAYS NEEDED FOR OUR ECONOMY

Toronto.—Canadians are too prone to dwell on the cost of railway transportation to the taxpayer and to forget the cost of competing forms of transportation on highways and waterways, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, said here.

Addressing the 21st triennial conference of the Railway Y.M.C.A.'s of North America, the minister expressed the opinion both Canadian railway systems, the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific, were efficiently operated.

Railway service is and probably always will be necessary to our national economy," he said. "Railways have a fundamental advantage in that they can move a ton of freight more cheaply than any other form of transportation excepting the water carrier."

Improvements in railway equipment and operation have made considerable strides in speeding the delivery of freight and adding to the comfort of passengers.

"The problem is one that requires the best efforts of those responsible for railway management but, with the return of business to normal, and the growth of population to be expected in a country like Canada, I have every hope that our railways have passed over their worst difficulties and can move on to more prosperous days."

Debt charges on the Canadian National were out of proportion to those of competing railways, said the minister, due to assumption by the government of debts incurred under private ownership.

The rates of fixed charges to gross operating revenues for all class one railways in the United States in 1937 was 15.9 per cent. and for the Canadian Pacific it was 16.8 per cent. But for the Canadian National it was 26.9 per cent.

Since the Canadian National system was formed by merging several former systems it had never failed to earn its operating expenses but in only one year had it been able to meet its fixed charges of $50,000,000.

The present Canadian National administration body, a small board of directors chosen without regard to political or sectional considerations, was in his opinion the most efficient form of management which could be devised.

"It seems to me that we in Canada are too willing to dwell on the cost to the taxpayer of railway transportation and too anxious to forget the cost to the taxpayer of competing forms of transportation," said the minister.

The bureau of statistics has published figures indicating that for eight years, 1929-1936 inclusive, Canada spent in an average year on its highways for construction $48,000,000, for maintenance $21,500,000 and for interest on highway bonds $20,300,000, or a total average expenditure of $90,400,000. In the same period gasoline taxes brought in $26,600,000 and motor license fees about $12,000,000, leaving an annual excess of expenditure over income from highways of $51,800,000.

"The annual call on the taxpayer for railway purposes should not exceed that amount."

Labor Wins By-Election

Observers Regard Vote As Set-Back For Chamberlain

Dartford, England.—Labor wrested the Dartford House of Commons seat from the government in what political observers regarded as a setback for Prime Minister Chamberlain in his foreign policy.

Mrs. Jennie L. Adamson, a member of the Labor party's national executive was victor by 4,514 votes to 42,276 for Godfrey Mitchell, Conservative and head of a London contracting firm.

The total vote was far heavier than in the 1935 general election when the late F. Clarke, Conservative, defeated Mrs. Adamson by 38,242 votes to 35,596.

"I won because the electors disapproved of the government's foreign policy and are ashamed of Mr. Chamberlain's betrayal of Czechoslovakia and democracy," Mrs. Adamson said.

The by-election was the second since the Munich agreement resulted in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia with portions going to Germany, Poland and Hungary.

In the first Quintin Hogg, Conservative, retained his seat for the government ranks. There are five more by-elections pending.

The basement of the post office, recently vacated by Western Grocers Limited, is now occupied by Scott Fruit Co.

A guy remarked the other day: "Now, here's an example: You spread the hen and you get practically nothing, but spread the bull, and notice the results."

Although the United States comprises only seven per cent of the world's population, the nation owns more than seventy per cent of the world's life insurance.

Aberhart on Sunday last: "Nothing is impossible in this world." Well, what about those promised dividends. Many folks have during the past two or three years begun to realize fully how possible it is to increase the tax burden.

An exchange carried a heading a few days ago: "Pioneer editor passes to reward." Quite appropriate, we thought, for it's the only reward an editor gets for all his work on earth. But Mr. Aberhart thinks differently, and imagines the average editor is just rolling in the "dough" of the financial barons. Why on earth didn't he decide when younger to take up the publishing profession in preference to teaching, or attorney-general-ing, or premiering.

Considerable talent and friends from this district attended the concert staged by the board of managers of the United church in the Oddfellows' hall at Fernie on November 14th, including Mrs. R. W. C. "Bill" Sherman passed away at Granum on November 15th from a heart attack. He was born at Van Kleek Hill, Ontario, in 1880, and came to Alberta in 1898. He worked in the Crows' Nest Pass as a plasterer, and was for a time employed at Macleod. In 1900 he filed on a homestead on Willow Creek along with his two brothers, whom he later bought out. He was connected with the Masonic, Elks and Oddfellows orders.

Incidentally, the result of the Athabasca by-election is a definite indication that, however strongly convinced we may be of the fallacy of Social Credit, the fact remains that the unemployed and the hungry are still ready to grasp at whatever economic straw is handed out to them. Stable government may have a heap more common sense behind it, but it certainly lacks the ability to sell itself to the general public.—Grand Prairie Herald.
